Main treatment goals

- Add and retain moisture in dry skin
- Help heal excessively dry skin
- Reduce irritation
- Keep lips and hands hydrated
- Protect dry skin from sun exposure, cold/dry air, and irritating clothing

Important routine recommendations

- Limit baths/showers to 5-10 minutes and use warm water.
- Gently pat skin dry instead of rubbing.

- Use a gentle cleanser only where needed and avoid excessive lather.
- Shave at the end of the shower or bath.
- Apply fragrance-free moisturizer immediately after bathing while skin is still damp.
- Apply moisturizer several times daily, including after bathing, after washing hands, and whenever skin feels dry.
- Gently massage moisturizer into the skin.
- Apply lip balm or petroleum jelly to dry lips.
- Prefer a cream or ointment over lotion for overly dry skin.
- Use SPF 30+ sunscreen, seek shade, wear sun-protective clothing, and avoid tanning.
- Use a humidifier to increase moisture in the home; a portable one can be used in the bedroom while sleeping.
- Wear gloves when washing dishes, gardening, frequently exposing hands to water, or when protecting hands from cold, dry air.
- Wear loose-fitting cotton clothing; use a cotton or silk layer beneath rough fabrics.
- Apply hand cream after each hand washing.

Cautions or limitations mentioned

- Rubbing skin dry can irritate extremely dry skin.
- Using too much cleanser or creating a thick lather should be avoided.
- Deodorant soaps and other harsh products may be too irritating for dry, sensitive skin.
- Choose products labeled "fragrance-free."
- "Unscented" does not necessarily mean fragrance-free and may contain chemicals that can irritate dry, sensitive skin.
- Tight clothing can worsen dry skin through friction.
- Wool and polyester can irritate dry, sensitive skin.
- Clean humidifiers regularly to prevent mold.
- If a lip balm causes stinging or tingling, switch to one that does not cause that reaction.
